GOOD TIMES ON PLAYGROUNDS. Field Day at Rosedale and Fairy Festival at Garfield.

Field day exercises were held at the Rosedale playgrounds yesterday, while a folk and fairy festival was given at the Garfield playgrounds.

The field day exercises consisted mostly of athletic events. Under the guidance of Miss Edith L. Grosvenor of the Eastern High School the boys ran relay races, 25, 50 and 75 yard dashes, played base ball, volleyball, and jumped running and standing jumps. The girls ran relay races and performed special gymnastics, but the feature which brought the most applause was a Swedish dance, in which about fifty girls participated.

The program at Garfield playgrounds was under the direction of Miss Mary Roper and others from Friendship House, and was a very attractive one. The Swedish dance, some of the Swedish dances, a Hansel and Gretel dance, a Japanese dance and a Danish dance were given. The Swedish dance was furnished by the Home School Band.

MELON CROP LATE THIS YEAR. But It Will Be a Big One and the Prices Should Be Low.

Advices received by the watermelon dealers at the 11th street wharf, who handle the bulk of the melons brought to the market, are to the effect that the melon crop is late in maturing this year and that it will be the middle or latter part of next week before the first vessel laden with the fruit ties up at the wharf here this season.

This time last year cargoes of melons were arriving at the wharf almost daily, and the exyster wharf was a busy place. Within the next ten days or two weeks, however, the melon market will be waking up and before the middle of August the season will be in full swing and vessels will be bringing many thousands of watermelons here each day from the farms along the James, York and Rappahannock rivers, the eastern shore of Virginia and Maryland and from the Southern States.

The melon crop this year will be a large one, it is stated, and by the middle of the season the fruit should be selling at a low figure.

SAVED BY CAPT. BARCLAY. Rescue of Two Men Who Were Drifting Out to Sea.

Capt. John Barclay, the Potomac pilot of the Maryland Pilots' Association, was a day or two ago instrumental in saving two men from drowning in lower Chesapeake bay. He was aboard the steamship Nicomedia, which he was piloting from Baltimore to the capes of the Chesapeake, and as the ship was a short distance above Middle Ground shoals he saw an object on the water which was made out to be an overturned boat with two men clinging to it, being carried rapidly out to sea. Calling the attention of Capt. Schmidt, the master of the steamship, to the plight of the men, Capt. Barclay maneuvered the big ship to bring it close to them, and a boat was lowered, and in charge of the second officer of the ship, was sent after the men.

The boat returned with W. S. Frizell and William Smith, both of Norfolk, who were exhausted from clinging to the boat for seven hours after it was overturned in a sudden squall.

When Capt. Barclay left the ship at Cape Henry he took the men with him and gave them quarters on the steamer Pilot until next morning, when they were landed at Cape Henry. Capt. Schmidt had provided them with dry clothes after they had been rescued and given creature comfort to revive them after their perilous adventure.

PELLAGRA VICTIM BETTER.

Dr. Wyman Convinced That Her Case is an Isolated One.

Gertrude Mosen, the young woman who is suffering from pellagra at the Georgetown University Hospital, is said to be convalescing. It is believed that she will ultimately recover.

Surgeon General Wyman of the public health and marine hospital service, has interested himself in the case, and has assigned several physicians who have had experience with the disease in the south to watch developments and assist in the treatment. He is now convinced that Miss Mosen's case is an isolated one and that it is not a forerunner of a possible invasion of the north by the disease.

The young woman is believed to have contracted pellagra as a result of long periods of fasting, which she underwent while under the domination of Jonah Sturdivant, the fanatical negro preacher, now serving a term in the penitentiary in Maryland.

John H. Finney Discusses Some Aspects of Conservation Question.

"Some Aspects of the Conservation Question" was the subject of an informal talk delivered at the Commercial Club last night by John H. Finney, secretary of the Appalachian Forest Association.

The open garden back of the clubhouse was hung with electric lights and Chinese lanterns, tables were set about and the members of the club and their guests thoroughly enjoyed themselves.

Mr. Finney discussed conservation briefly, making some pertinent and interesting remarks on the waterways, water powers, coal and iron and forests of the country. He predicted that before the close of another session of Congress a law creating a forest reserve in the Appalachian mountains would be enacted.

Mr. Finney illustrated his remarks with lantern slides showing the soil waste, denudation and general forest waste which have been going on in different parts of the Appalachian mountains.
